

Something rotten in Dunkard

By Cindy Bailey GreeneSpeak Editor/Publisher

Environmental justice for Dunkard Creek will likely be a longtime coming

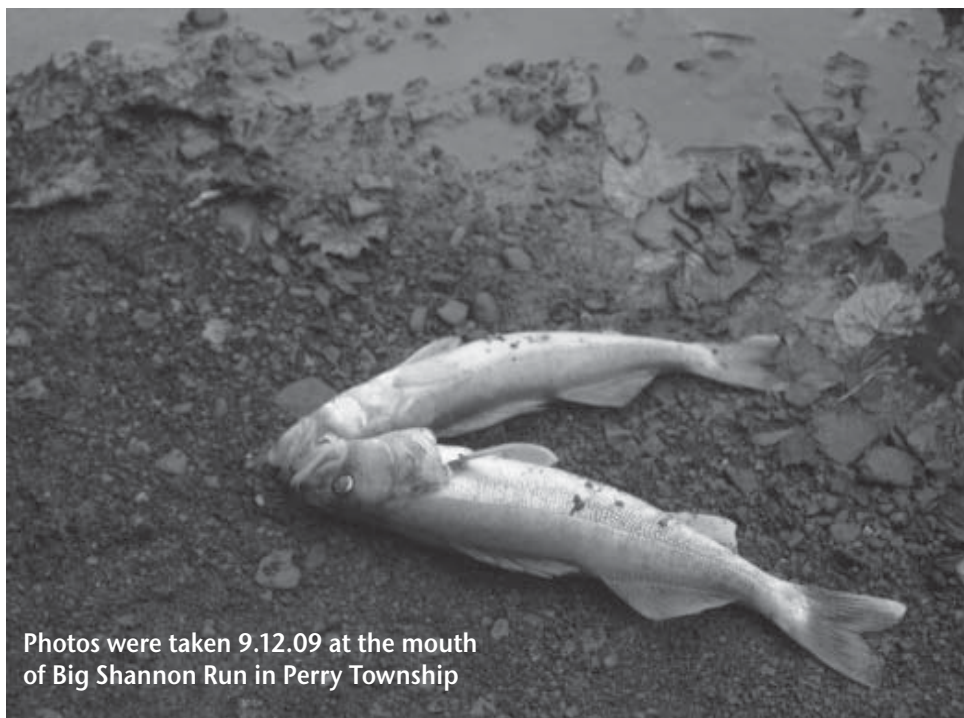

‘Dunkard is like the canary in the coal mine. The death of its creatures is a warning about our own future health.’

–Betty Wiley, President,
Dunkard Creek Watershed Association

‘It’s a crisis is what it is...We have to take ownership of what we’ve got.’

–Martin Niverth
Greene Co. Conservation District Manager.
